

SpaceShare Green Logistics: Internship Opportunity

International Development: Backpack Angels

Millions of travelers head from wealthy nations to explore and participate in cultures where people have less materially. International Development Organizations are desperate to move supplies from wealthier nations to their development projects across borders. Travelers would be happy for the chance to participate in helping people as they travel. We intend to bring them together.

We can build the technology tools for this project. We're looking for someone in the International Development field to handle the other aspects:

What's Involved:

- Find allies in the international development field.
- Find funding for the project.
- Once we have funding, SpaceShare's programmers can build the system, and either you or someone else can work with allies, travelers, travel writers and so on to implement the project. (The possibility exists of this transforming into a job.)
- Begin to design follow-up projects that help make the travelers, now couriers, find their way to become ever more involved in international development projects.

SpaceShare:

SpaceShare is a young environmental partnership developing online tools to make ridesharing and resource-saving much easier. We've created rideshare and room-share matching tools for concerts, activist events, conferences, etc.

We need you to make this happen:

More information about our vision, mission and volunteer opportunities on-line.

Email info@spaceshare.com or see our website at www.spaceshare.com

Or call Stephen at 510-520-6175